

Imagine you were walking through Hewitt's front door. What would the house look like? How much smaller would you be than the items in the house. Using your colored pencils draw what is on the other side of the door. As an added piece, have your teacher take a full body digital photograph of you and print it very small. Cut your image out with scissors and glue it on the page to show how much smaller you would be to the giant house.

